GEN. LOGAN'S BODY PLACED IN THE CAPITOL BUILDING.

Upon the Face of the Brave Man-The Procession to the Capitol-A Fervent Prayer by Rev. Newman-The Plural

Washington City, Dec. 31.—The scenes it Gen. Logan's old home on the hills overat Gen. Logan's old home on the hills over-looking this city were impressive Thursday morning. Early in the day the body, dressed in civilian costume of black broadcloth, the left breast covered with corps and associa-tion badges, was placed in the casket and the family were admitted to pay the last fare-well alone with the dead. The house was crowded with veterans and public men and it might almost be said to be full of flowers, while long rows of carriages seemed to ex-tend for miles from its gates. At 11 o'clock the death chamber was opened, and senators and soldiers, veterans and visitors crowded in to pay their tribute of respect, while the solbing widew and be-reaved relatives lingured about the easket
